Impacts of Salem State University

For more than 160 years, Salem State University has been a vital part of the economic, intellectual and cultural vibrancy of Salem, the North Shore and all of Massachusetts. This economic impact study aims to quantify the significance of the activities of the university and the many contributions of Salem State’s students, alumni, faculty, and staff.

Executive Summary

During fiscal year (FY) 2014 Salem State University generated an economic impact of over $827 million in Massachusetts.

The economic impact on the City of Salem was more than $100 million.

The regional impact on Essex County reached over $443 million.

Students

The students at Salem State University have a large impact on the local economy. The university estimates an approximate budget of $22,752 will be spent by a student living off-campus over a nine-month term. With 1,116 students living off-campus in Salem and a further 5,755 in Essex County, millions of dollars are sent into the North Shore economy annually. Direct and indirect dollars generated are calculated in Table 2, which does not include spending by the 1,984 students who lived in residence halls in FY2014.

Further Impacts of Salem State University on the Economy

Several factors are considered influential at this scale but are not included in previous figures:

- Alumni who stay in Salem, Essex County and Massachusetts
- Programs and entities affiliated with Salem State University that service the North Shore, Massachusetts. For example:
  - Enterprise Center
  - Small Business Development Center
- Programs that extend beyond degree-seeking students that are offered at Salem State University and draw participation from across the state
- Increase in “Quality of Life” events, such as:
  - Performing Arts
  - Athletics
  - Speaker Series
  - Agganis Forum

The socio-cultural impacts of Salem State on the North Shore are extensive, although more difficult to quantify in economic terms as there is no one widely accepted method of ascribing dollar values to socio-cultural resources. Yet, there are many impacts that can be directly related in these areas, such as:

- Enriched society and stronger innovation and creative economy* educational access
  - Major providers of post secondary services in the region and beyond
  - Contributions to a knowledge-based economy
- Graduates
  - Major provider of skilled workers in education, business, healthcare
- Area Development
  - Continuing education programming
- Volunteerism
  - Community outreach
- Provides an enhanced identity locally/regionally
- Shared facilities (O’Keefe Complex and fields)

Salem State invested significantly in campus facilities in FY2014. Some of the major projects that were completed during FY2014 included:

- Frederick E. Berry Library and Learning Commons (August 2013)
- Harold E. and Marilyn J. Gassett Fitness and Recreation Center (August 2013)
- Student Navigation Center—this one-stop-shop now houses the admissions, student accounts, ClipperCard, financial aid, registrar, and transfer services (July 2014)
- Canal Street Parking—the former Weir property located on Canal Street was converted to surface parking with over 300 spaces (September 2014)
