

Kenneth V. Hardy, PhD

Dr. Kenneth V. Hardy is a professor of family therapy at Drexel University in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and is also director of the Eikenberg Institute for Relationships in New York where he maintains a private practice specializing in working with at-risk children and their families. He is the former chair of the Department of Child and Family Studies at Syracuse University in Syracuse, New York.

Dr. Hardy's work with children and families has earned him considerable public acclaim including appearances on the Oprah Winfrey Show, 20/20, Dateline NBC and PBS. He was also the featured therapist in "Living Room Wars," a Discovery Health

Channel program devoted to providing family therapy to traumatized youth and their families.

Dr. Hardy has provided training and consultation to numerous organizations, agencies and institutions devoted to working with at-risk children and their families. He has also provided training, consultation and supervision to public and private schools throughout the United States and Canada

Dr. Hardy is a frequent presenter of conferences on the topics of at-risk youth, trauma and oppression. He has published prolifically and is the co-author of the following books: Minorities and Family Therapy; Teens Who Hurt: Clinical Interventions for Breaking the Cycle of Violence; and Revisoning Family Therapy: Race, Class, and Culture. In addition to his publications, Dr. Hardy is also featured in several videotapes including a documentary devoted to slavery. His videotape "The Psychological Residuals of Slavery" has been well received by both the professional and lay communities for serving as a catalyst to promote conversations about the intersections of race, oppression and trauma.